

BALL POINT GAME

Feel the Scrum Flow

BORIS GLOGER®

RULES OF THE GAME

- You play in one or several Teams
- Starting point equals endpoint
- No passing of the ball to your direct neighbour
- The ball must have air-time
- Everyone in the room participates
- Two minutes per iteration
- One minute for continuous improvement & new estimate
- You play five iterations

THE PLAYBOOK

- 2 minutes introduction
- 2 minutes on rules of the game
- 2 minutes preparation time for the team(s)
- Get an estimate: How many balls can go through the system?
- Start first iteration
- One minute improvement / new estimate
- Repeat four times
- Debriefing 15 minutes

DEBRIEFING

- What happened?
- Which iteration felt best?
- Where did you feel the Scrum Flow?

INSIGHTS

- Scrum Flow = Deming Cycle
(plan, do, check, act)
- A system has a natural velocity
- The feeling of „flow“ will happen
if the challenge is doable

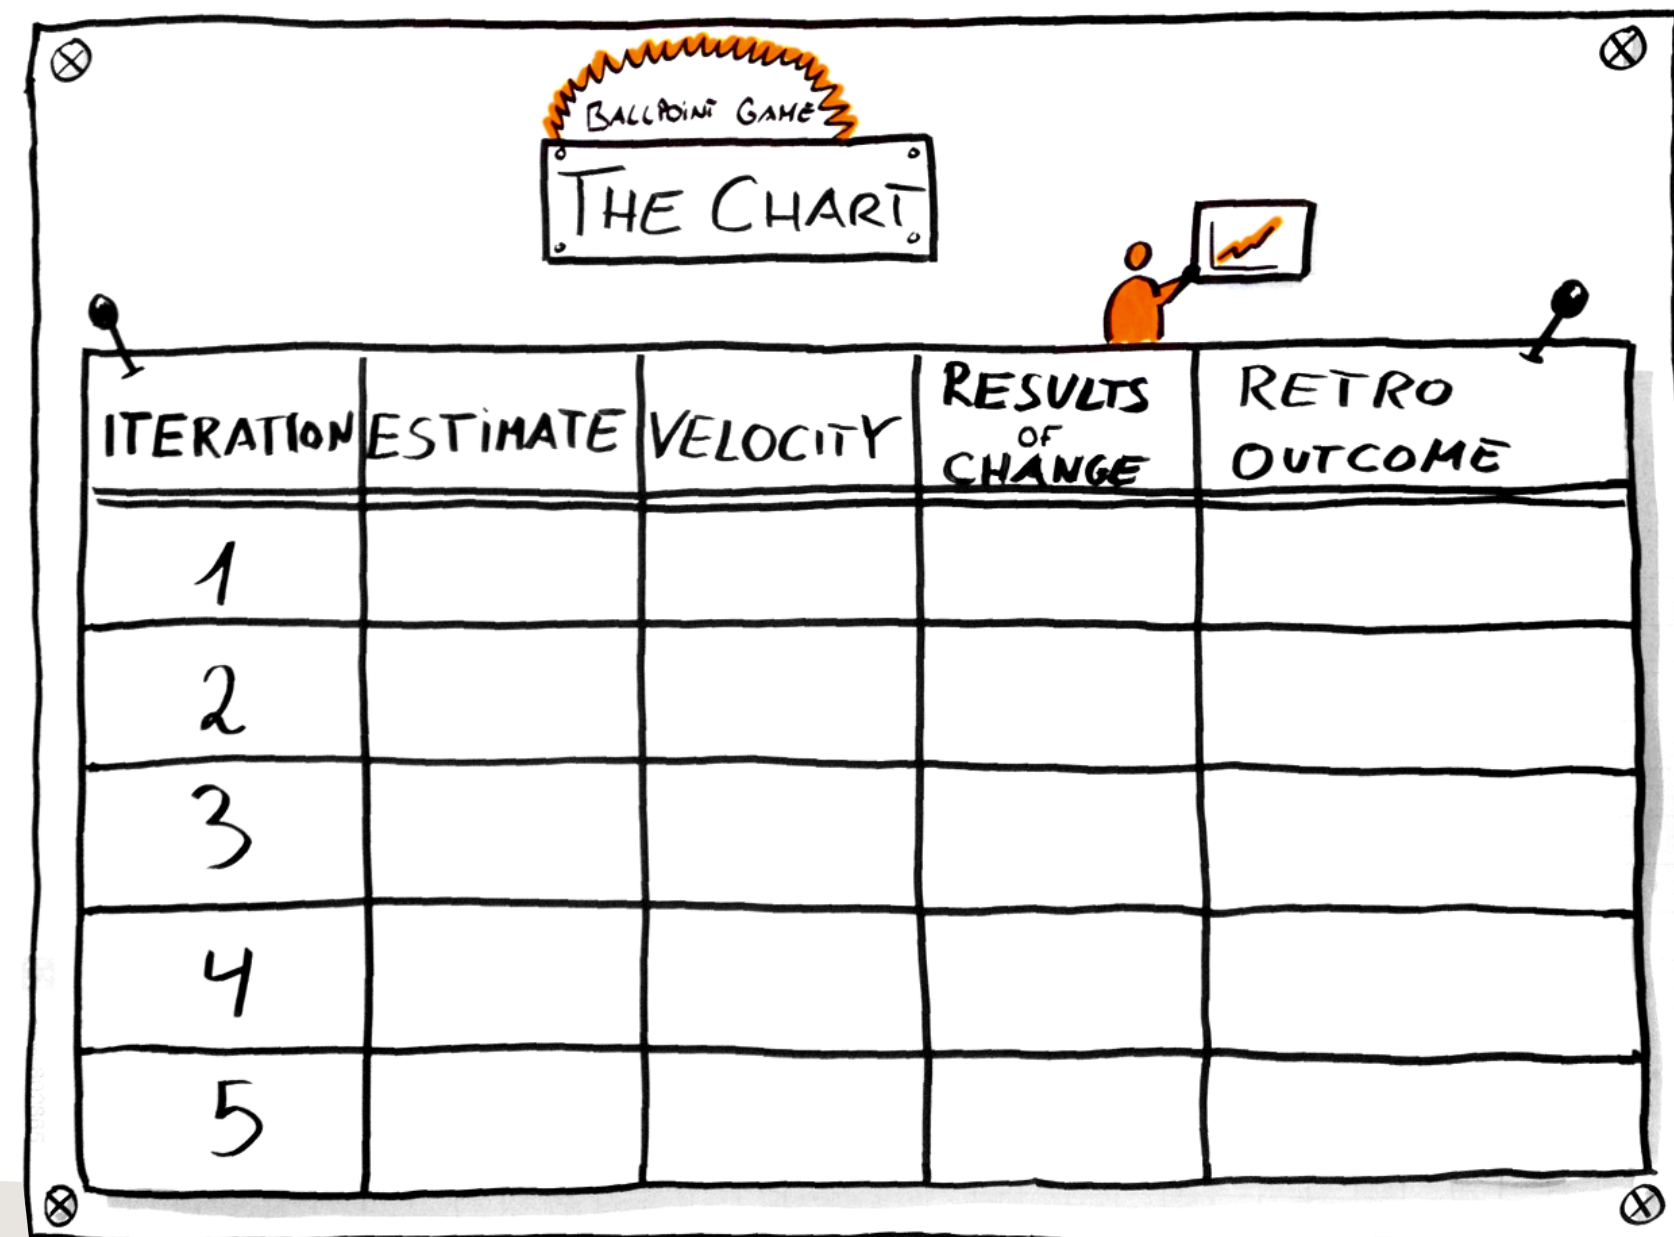

TEMPLATE RULES

TEMPLATE PLAYBOOK

TEMPLATE ESTIMATION

DEMING CYCLE

- Plan = Decide what to do.
- Do = Do it!
- Check = Did it work?
- Act = Decide what to do next.
